POINTS OF INTEREST

🌟 MIDHURST RAILWAY

The line opened in 1881 to improve access to London, including three tunnels and eight stations – the most notable being Singleton due to its proximity to Goodwood Racecourse. The railway’s decline started with the withdrawal of passenger services in 1935 and the line north of Lavant was closed completely in 1957. However, the section between Lavant and Chichester was used for the transportation of sugar beet and gravel until 1991. The last of the tracks were finally removed in 1993.

🌟 BRANDY HOLE COPSE

Heading south on the Centurion Way, into the city of Chichester, you will cross Brandy Hole Copse. The Copse is a 6.5-hectare area of managed woodland mainly comprised of sweet chestnut and boasts three small ponds with viewing platforms. The area was made a Local Nature Reserve in 2001 to help protect and enhance its diverse flora and fauna, which include a sea of bluebells every spring and wildlife such as rare species of bats.

🌟 WEST DEAN

West Dean village includes a village store and tearooms, church, pub and the 6,400 acre West Dean Estate – owned by the Edward James Foundation, a registered educational charity set up in 1964, which runs West Dean College and Gardens. The estate is made up of both arable and pastoral farmland; timber is also grown commercially on the estate. Many of the cottages that sit on the estate are Grade II listed. The estate supports a wide variety of flora and fauna, including many varieties of orchids, lichens and colonies of wild daffodils. The estate’s wild mammal population includes dormice and five species of bat.

🌟 FISHBOURNE ROMAN PALACE

Keeping on the Roman theme and well worth a slight detour from the start of the trail, this 1st Century home and archaeological site has the largest collection of mosaic floors in Britain. If you want to take a tour or just a short wander around, you can learn about its in-depth history; from its construction in AD75 to its destruction in the late 3rd Century. sussexpast.co.uk

The Centurion Way is a 5.5 mile (9km) path that runs between Chichester, Lavant and West Dean using the dismantled Chichester to Midhurst Railway, which closed in 1991. The name, Centurion Way, was suggested by a local schoolboy and is based on the fact that the path crosses the course of a Roman road. In December 2015, a new 1.5 mile (2.5km) path on the old railway line was opened giving year-round access to West Dean, for both walkers and cyclists.

Our long-term aspiration is to extend the Centurion Way to the South Downs Way and beyond to Midhurst.

Explore some of the South East’s rich history along the linear Centurion Way from Chichester to West Dean.

1. Join the Centurion Way shared path to the left of the entrance for Bishop Luffa School.

2. After 1.5km pass underneath the bridge. The picturesque woodland of Brandy Hole Copse is on your left and can be reached directly from the Centurion Way by exiting the path onto Brandy Hole Lane.

3. Continue on the path for 2.5km (or 1.5 miles) to reach the village of Mid Lavant and the former Lavant Station. Follow the signed route through the quiet housing estate for 1km, bear right onto Churchmead Close and then right again onto Springfield Close. Continue along Lavant Down Road and pick up the route on the other side of the green.

4. At the bridge you can either continue straight on following the path to a set of steps to access West Dean, or turn left and follow the segregated path alongside the A286.

5. After a further 2.5km (1.5 miles) you will reach the turning point at West Dean Tunnel. You can access West Dean village for refreshments via a set of steps and a wheeling ramp for bicycles.
